FIVE INDICTED HELD IN ROBBERY OF BANK AND TRUST COMPANY

Accused In Holdup In Sedalia Getting $18,409 In March, 1935

SHERIFF MARLIN AND OTHER LOCAL OFFICERS AID

Cooperation Is Accorded With Federal Bureau of Investigation

TWO ARRESTED ON MONDAY NIGHT

Announced Suspects Will Face Federal Court at Kansas City

Dwight Brantley, agent in charge of the Federal Bureau of Investigation office in Kansas City, this noon in a telephone conversation to the Sedalia Democrat gave much credit to the uncovering of the Sedalia Bank & Trust Company robbery to the fine cooperation among local officials and members of his department.

He referred to Sheriff W. L. Marlin, sheriff of Pettis County, Deputy Clyde Coppers, Colonel Marvin B. Casteel, Trooper Paul E. Corl, and other members of the Missouri State Highway Patrol, and Chief of Detectives of the Kansas City, Kansas Police Department, Chester H. Loughbom and Detective Robert Darnell and members of the Kansas State Highway Patrol.

Investigation of the bank robbery was conducted by Federal Agents A. E. Forland and F. S. Smith, who recently were transferred to other offices and given promotions and their reports were in turn given to other agents now working out of the Kansas City office. Agent Forland has been transferred to San Francisco, California while Agent Smith has been sent to Oklahoma City.

"Through the cooperation of the mentioned officers with members of my department, one of the largest bank robberies in the mid-west has been broken up. The holdup men in custody all participated in the robbery of the Sedalia bank in some manner," he states. "The last of the gang was arrested in two raids conducted by Federal Bureau of Investigation agents and other officers Monday night. In Kansas City, Kansas, Albert C. Gladson, 39, was arrested by my men accompanied by Detective Darnell, while in Lutherville, Arkansas, F. B. I. agents arrested Hubert Munger. Both arrests were made about the same time. Others already in custody and who have been definitely identified are Glen Van Hook, 33; Alton Crapo, 33; and John W. Davidson, 50." Agent Brantley said.

Davidson, now serving a ten-year sentence on a charge of killing William A. "Biddy" Dickenson, a convicted burglar, three weeks earlier for burglary, formerly resided in Warsaw, Missouri. Davidson is believed to have been one of the "main figure heads" in the local robbery. He is now in the Missouri penitentiary.

Chief At Time of Robbery.
Sheriff Marlin at the time of the bank robbery was chief of police of Sedalia, and has since been working to obtain evidence as to who the holdup men were. Although he was out of office from May of 1935 until January 1, 1937 and was

OFFICERS ELECTED BY STUDENT COUNCIL

The first meeting of the Senior Student Council at Smith-Cotton high school was held at the school Monday afternoon. John Rayl, the student council president for this year, was in charge. The following officers were elected:

Secretary. Mildred Heynen; Treasurer. Grace Sparr; parliamentarian. Fred Blockman; sergeant-at-arms. Jack Sloemaker; reporter. E. G. McGrath. Chairmen of the following committees were appointed: Social, Kathryn Labahn; traffic, E. G. McGrath; athletic, Bob Alpert, and tardy, Jeanne Reiter.

Following the election above, a wide discussion of the Spiz was held. It was decided that the Spiz girls would be elected as they have been in previous years; sixteen girls from each of the junior and senior classes. These girls would be voted on and elected by members of the Senior Student Council. The other way some of the students and members of the council wanted to elect these girls was to have voted on in the home rooms.

TRIO ROBS BANK AT APPLETON CITY THIS AFTERNOON

Make Escape In Automobile With About $12,000 Loot

By The Associated Press.
APPLETON CITY, Mo., Sept. 14.—Three men held up the Citizens Bank here shortly after noon today and escaped in a motor car with approximately $12,000.

Robbers Unmasked.
Two dark complexioned men, armed with revolvers but unmasked, entered the bank while the third man remained at the wheel of a dark coupe with a Kansas license tag.

The two men at first told Merrill Peeler, assistant cashier, who was alone in the bank, to put his hands in his pockets. Then they forced him to open a safe. The Seward, a customer, entered the bank and was directed to put up his hands.

The robbers took the money from the safe and from a tray in the cashier's cage.

Directing Peeler and Seward to walk out the back door, the robber ran out the front door and jumped into the car, which headed southward. The robbers were reported to have changed cars about a mile from town.

Officers of St. Clair County and three adjoining counties immediately started in pursuit.

Reported To Patrol.
JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 14.—(AP)—Robbery of a bank at Appleton City, St. Clair County, by three men who received an undetermined amount of money was reported this afternoon to the State Highway Patrol here.

The men, described as heavy set and dark complexioned, escaped in a dark colored coupe, bearing state license plates, the patrol said. The license number was not learned.

The holdup, according to reports reaching here, occurred about 12:45 p. m. After the robbery, the men fled southwest of Appleton City.

Bank Robbery Highlights

The sensational daytime robbery of the Sedalia Bank and Trust Co. took place about 8:25 o'clock the morning of March 19, 1935.

Two of the five men began their activities shortly before midnight, March 18, and held six persons captive throughout the night until the morning of the 19th. All bank employees were locked in the safe during the holdup.

The alarm was given by a member of the Chamber of Commerce who was passing by.

O. B. Poundstone was tied to the bath tub of his home and his son, John, was roped to the banister of a stairway, while one of the bandits stood guard over Mrs. Poundstone and her daughter, Patricia, upstairs. The bandit told Patricia that she would not be tied if she would mind her mother.

Mayor Poundstone thought the affair was a joke until one of the bandits struck him on the head with the handle of his pistol.

One of the bandits told Poundstone that he did not envy his position as mayor. "I got a better racket," he said.

Mrs. Poundstone made coffee and the bandits partook of a lunch of sweet rolls while waiting for the bank to open.

Brandishing sawed-off shotguns two of the robbers ordered six employees and a customer to go into the vault and they then gathered up the money.

A. E. Strelow, assistant bookkeeper for the bank, commenting of the bandits weapons, said that a forty-five revolver looked like a stove-pipe.

GARAGE WORKERS HOLD MASS MEET IN COURT HOUSE

Federation Official Says Employees Will Be Under Contract Soon

"I believe that within a week we will have every garage employe in Sedalia covered with a contract," said L. C. Bryson, local chairman of the shop committee at the conclusion of the mass meeting of garage men and organized workers at the court house Monday night.

"The American Federation of Labor," Bryson continued, "now is the controlling group in the move to organize the garage workers. Representatives of the organized crafts in Sedalia pledged their support to the proposed union during the meeting."

Floyd Weber of St. Louis, a grand lodge organizer, spoke to the assembly and explained the benefits of organized labor. While making no direct attack on the C. I. O., Weber stressed the impossibility of having two labor organizations in a city this size. He sketched briefly the American Federation of Labor's activities in the unionizing of garage workers in other cities and listed the benefits workers in those districts have received.

Weber outlined the federation's plans in Sedalia and assured the garage men that they would be allowed to complete their own organization and would receive all the support the organized crafts here could give.

Leroy Dent, president of local 71, International Association of Machinists, who presided over the meeting introduced members of the Federation in Sedalia who told of their experiences in the A. F. L.

Those who spoke at the meeting were: L. C. Bryson, Herman Dick, chairman of the sheetmetal workers, Fred Rose, and G. O. Halley, electricians, Rudolph Buss, Walter Burnett, machinists, G. P. Burlette, vice-president of the central body of the Sedalia Federation of Labor, John Driscoll, president of the railway carmen and J. H. Keller, general chairman of district five.

MORE PLAYGROUND AT WHITTIER SCHOOL

The Sedalia Board of Education is disposing of the property for cash to clear the ground. It is located on the south side of Fifteenth street between Montgomery and Brown avenues in southeast Sedalia. The sale will start promptly at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

HITLER ENIGMA TO GREAT POWERS OF THE WORLD

Reaction To Patrolling of Inland Sea Is Being Awaited

CONJECTURE OVER COLONIES DEMAND

Only Future Can Reveal Steps In Game of "Put and Take"

(Editor's note: When Adolf Hitler started his rise to power a little more than five years ago, Louis F. Lochner, chief of the Berlin bureau of the Associated Press, already was a veteran observer of German politics. He had seen the days of post-war reconstruction, the republic under von Hindenburg. Since then, he has observed and written daily of Germany under Hitler. Just returned to this country on vacation, he writes his views of Hitler and where he may go along Europe's present course between war and peace.)

By LOUIS F. LOCHNER
NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—(AP)—Adolf Hitler, the master hand at intuitive action, today is the living question mark in the calculations of all great powers.

"What will Hitler do?" The question is asked score upon score of times in foreign chancelleries as one international crisis after another arises—each with the potential danger of actual widespread war.

Today... how will he react to the Franco-British coalition to send warships into the Mediterranean to drive out private submarines? What, really, will he do about colonies?

Moves Are An Enigma.
Tomorrow... who knows what question may be demanded of Hitler and how his answer may turn the course of world history?

And underlying the surface moves in German foreign policy, the seeming inconsistencies of Hitler's game of put and take, are the deeply-etched fundamentals:

What is behind Hitler's demand for colonies? What is his game in Spain? How do Hitler and Mussolini hit it off? Will there be war with Russia? Can France and Germany ever get together? What about Anglo-German relations?

No one can predict with any degree of certainty what Hitler will do in the future. One can only view the past. Hitler works intuitively. He sees an opportunity and he seizes it, often to the amazement of his close advisors.

Take the demand for return of the colonies stripped from Germany at the end of the world war. From a reading of his autobiography, "Mein Kampf," which has with some justification been called the bible of the Nazi movement, one would not gather that Hitler regards colonies as something particularly worth striving for.

Yet, during the Nuremberg party Congress, despite Isogai's confidence, still are harrying the Japanese flank from villages west of the railway and its parallel canal. Between Manchang and Tientsin, they blew up and rerailed a Japanese military train.

From the looks of things, the Chinese also stole out of Manchang

REPORTS GIVEN AT C. OF C. MEETING

The membership meeting of the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce was held at the St. Francis Hotel at noon today for the purpose of hearing several reports of committees.

A report on the State Cancer hospital was given by W. P. Stanley regarding Sedalia's endeavor to secure location of the institution here.

Henry Harris, gave a report on the agriculture committee explaining the committee deferred their visit to the Resettlement community in the Hughesville and Houstonia communities.

The nominating committee of five members was then appointed. This committee will in turn nominate about twenty-five members on which the Chamber of Commerce membership will vote to select its board of directors.

Following the election of the board of directors the officers of the Chamber of Commerce will be chosen.

FORECAST AN INCREASE IN PAY FOR TEACHERS

COLUMBIA, Mo., Sept. 14.—An increase in Missouri teachers' salaries in 1938, due to the increased school money coming from the 2 per cent sales tax, was forecast today in a report of the University of Missouri committee on recommendations.

R. L. Davidson Jr., chairman of the committee, said the university placed 271 teachers in 1936, as compared with 274 in 1935, 212 in 1934 and 156 in 1933.

CORN SHUCKING TO DRAW HUGE CROWD

MARSHALL, Mo., Sept. 14.—The farm of the Weber brothers—Jake, George and Adolph—was chosen today for the site of the national corn shucking contest Nov. 3 and 4.

The farm, chosen from among nine offered free by their owners, is on state highway 41 eight miles north of here. Judges proclaimed the Weber corn crop excellent and the location accessible for a crowd which they predicted may reach 100,000.

Judges were George Wilkerson, Hughesville, past president of the Missouri Corn Growers Association; Layton Roberts, Mendon, state shucking champion and several times a national contest participant, and Paul Renz, Jefferson City, superintendent of the state prison farm.

SUPREME COURT JUSTICE BLACK IS STILL SILENT

Elan Imperial Wizard H. W. Evans Says Attack "Political Issue"

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—Senator David I. Walsh (D-Mass) called on President Roosevelt today to set up an "impartial" investigating committee to study statements that Supreme Court Justice Hugo L. Black holds a "life membership" in the Ku Klux Klan.

In Atlantic City, Governor Bibb Graves of Alabama referred to a series of copyrighted articles published by the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette and confirmed that he, Graves, was a former member of the Klan. He said, however, that he could not recall ever meeting Black at any Klan meetings or conferences.

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—Supreme Court Justice Hugo Black maintained complete silence in London today on allegations that he is a member of the Ku Klux Klan, as Imperial Wizard Hiram W. Evans reiterated Black's name is not on the rolls of the organization and former Governor Alfred E. Smith planned to join the controversy.

Evans asserted in Atlanta that attacks on the newly appointed justice and former United States senator from Alabama were "simply the result of a New York political issue."

He referred to New York's Democratic senator, Royal S. Copeland, candidate for mayor with Smith's support, who said of Black, "in all honor and decency he should resign at once."

Copeland's headquarters announced that Smith, Tammany sachem, would express his views on the Black matter in a political speech tomorrow night.

While the controversy raged, Justice Black, vacationing in Europe, seemingly was content to let members of the administration answer the attack. He has been silent since the charge first was brought up in the senate following his appointment.

Push Deep Into Delta In Massed Onslaught Near Shanghai

AN AMERICAN IS CHOLERA VICTIM

Hongkong Report States Victory Achieved In Chinese Air Assault

By JAMES A. MILLS
SHANGHAI, Sept. 14.—The Japanese army splashed forward through a torrential rain today in a massed attack against Chinese second line positions northwest of Shanghai.

A Japanese spokesman reported that the strong fortifications at the Chinese civic center of Kiangwan had been occupied and the Japanese troops had pushed deep into the delta. The muddy roads were jammed with Japanese reinforcements moving up to bolster the assault against the new Chinese line.

Heavy artillery and tanks slithered across country behind the advancing Japanese infantry in the flooded delta lands.

New horror was added to the tragic story of undeclared war at Shanghai when the Chinese Central News Agency reported 400 civilian war refugees had been killed or wounded by Japanese bombs rained on the flimsy sailing boats in which they were fleeing the city.

Three of the boats were said to have been sunk and six damaged. The undefended decks of the open boats were crowded with frightened Chinese, huddled among their luggage and portable possessions.

American Cholera Victim.
The dread epidemic of cholera struck down its first American victim. He is H. A. Ferguson, 34, of Buffalo, N. Y.

Ferguson, whose wife is a Russian, came to Shanghai several years ago and has been working on English language newspapers as a proofreader.

Doctors at the Russian isolation hospital in the French concession said his condition was serious.

Defeated Japanese Fleet
HONGKONG, Sept. 14.—Chinese warplanes and the guns of Bocca Tigris forts at the entrance to the Canton river were reported today to have defeated a Japanese fleet in what was described as a major naval engagement.

A spokesman for the Kwangtung provincial government said one Japanese warship was struck squarely on the bridge by a shell and another was belching clouds of smoke where it had been hit by a bomb.

The Japanese fleet of four destroyers and one cruiser attacked the Bocca Tigris forts, protecting the river entrance and the route to Canton, at 5 a. m.

Though the warships rained

STILL BEWILDERED ON COUNTY FUNDS

JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 14.—County collectors—still bewildered over whether to continue their past duties of treasurer—took their problem today to the man who audits their records.

State Auditor Forrest Smith, in replying he said to queries from 33 collectors, joined Attorney General Roy McKittick in holding informally they are now without authority to issue warrants or fulfill other duties of the treasurer. The law re-establishing that office in 74 counties went into effect September 6.

During the last administration Smith assumed the duty of auditing county officials. He explained the collectors just wanted to keep their records straight.

The problem is expected to be cleared up soon after Governor Lloyd C. Stark returns from an eastern vacation the latter part of the week. He announced before departing he would name the new officials upon his return.

Many county officials have been in communication with the attorney general with requests for advice on how to handle the funds.

GRANDDAUGHTER OF JOHN WANAMAKER DIES SUDDENLY

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—(AP)—Mary Brown Warburton, granddaughter of the late John Wanamaker, merchant, and sometime postmaster general, was found unconscious in her Park Avenue apartment this morning and died a short time later.

Police reported Miss Warburton had been taking reducing tablets. These, the police said, probably caused her death.

ACTIVITY TICKET DRIVE TO BEGIN

The annual activity ticket drive at Smith-Cotton will begin Thursday. Each class in the high school will elect a queen to represent them during the drive and the students in each of the classes will try to sell as many of these tickets as they can.

The tickets this year will be sold to the students and any one who cares to buy one for $2.00 plus tax. The tickets admit the holder to all athletic games and many activities at the school.

Thursday morning five girls from every class will be nominated and Friday morning a candidate from each of the five will be chosen for her class.

At the end of the drive, the class which sold the most activity tickets will put their candidate in as activity queen. Her crowning ceremony will be held at the half of the first football game this fall at Liberty Park.

YOM KIPPUR BE OBSERVED WITH FASTING PERIOD

Rabbi Baron To Conduct Services at Temple Beth El For Event

(By Rabbi S. H. Baron)
The ancient words of "Kol Nidre," chanted according to a time-honored melody of the middle ages by Mrs. B. H. Wenner, will usher in the 24-hour observance of the Day of Atonement at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening in Temple Beth El, West Broadway and South Missouri avenue. Correspondingly, the theme of Rabbi Samuel Halevi Baron's sermon at that service will be "Kol Nidre—Its Melody and Meaning."

Religious services Wednesday are to begin at 10:00 a. m. At the conclusion of the morning service, which is scheduled to end during the noon hour, Rabbi Baron will preach on the question, "Is This the Fast I Have Chosen?"

The children of the congregation and religious school, who plan to be absent from the public schools all day Wednesday out of respect for the most sacred day in the Jewish religious calendar, are to participate in a special children's service for Yom Kippur at 2:30 p. m., to which their elders are likewise invited. This service has been arranged by the Rabbi who will be in charge and will give a story-sermonette which he calls "Philadelphia."

To Sound Ram's Horn
Regular services are to be resumed at 4:15 p. m., with the second Scripture ritual of the day. The annual memorial service will begin at 4 o'clock and will include a sermon by the Rabbi on "Self-Sanctification." The concluding service for the Day of Atonement is to start at 5 o'clock and will end at 6 p. m. Wednesday with the traditional sounding of the Sophar or ram's horn by Abe Rosenthal.

Assisting in these services will be the temple choir, which—in addition to Mrs. Wenner—includes the following Sisterhood members: Mrs. Bertman, Mrs. Harry Kanter, Mrs. Sam Milton and Mrs. Abe Rosenthal. Mrs. Fred Ross is the organist.

Orthodox religious services for Yom Kippur are to be conducted simultaneously in another hall of worship at Temple Beth El. The service on Tuesday evening will begin at 7 p. m., and services throughout the following day are to start at 8 a. m. The Rev. S. Brahmson of Kansas City will be in charge of these traditional services.

Yom Kippur will conclude the Ten days of Penitence which began last week with the observance of the Jewish New Year. Pious Jews will spend the entire day in the synagogue, neither eating, nor drinking, but devoting it entirely to meditation and prayer.

The Day of Atonement is distinguished from most other holidays in that it is associated with no historical event. The day is purely an attempt at self-regeneration and "at-one-ment" with God. Although its roots reach far back into primitive times and may have some relation to an ancient equinoctial festival, the day received its present character in the Bible period.

COMPLETE BIG DAM IN BENTON COUNTY
Construction of a large dam 420 feet long with a 140 foot base and 20 feet wide at the top and a 30 foot spillway under a W. P. A. project at the Roy Fulton farm in Benton County, near Rackett, was completed Monday.

Work on the dam for a large lake was started February 15, 1937 with Peter M. Blanchard, of Warsaw, area engineer; Ernest O. Hilton, Sedalia, superintendent, and Maurice W. Bailey, Sedalia, timekeeper.

The dam is said to be one of the best and most attractive completed under W. P. A.

ACCORD BY NINE NATIONS TO PUT STOP TO PIRACY

Deals Solely With Submarine Attacks on Ships In Sea

MIGHTY FLEET TO MEDITERRANEAN

Pact Signed at Nyon With Italy and Germany Out

By The Associated Press.
ROME, Sept. 14.—Italy refused tonight to join the Nyon-drafted plan for driving submarine pirates from the Mediterranean—the refusal because Italy was not granted equal authority with Britain and France in the warship patrol of the sea.

GENEVA, Sept. 14.—The envoys of nine nations signed today at Nyon a historic document to suppress submarine piracy in the Mediterranean—with the war vessels of Great Britain and France already steaming toward what experts called the greatest naval demonstration of its kind ever planned.

The accord, signed in the modest community hall of Nyon, deals solely with the question of piratical submarine attacks in the inland sea, attacks which government, Spain and Soviet Russia charge Italy to Italy. Italy, not a signatory today, denies this just as flatly.

The League of Nations itself will consider how to deal with other forms of Mediterranean aggression. Great Britain and France immediately swung into action to concentrate a mighty fleet on the inland sea.

Britain more than doubled her Mediterranean fighting strength. New admiralty orders disclosed she will have 90 warships in

PENSION BENEFITS

Picking up any rural newspaper in Missouri published at a railroad division point, one is amazed at the number of railroad workers being retired on age or service pensions. These are in addition to the scores retiring with competences in the bigger cities. There are more than 73,000 aged on the Missouri pension rolls. Hundreds of others are being retired annually on pensions by Missouri private corporations. These facts point a far higher social stage than Missouri had known. The full significance of this is gathered on the reflection the movement is national. It is too early, of course, to compile data on the true value of age pensions. But there is one thing certain. The pensions are having a material effect in lessening unemployment. The age pension, too, is disclosed not alone as a valuable provision for the present. Its highest value will be seen clearly when the Roosevelt social security act becomes completely effective in providing pensions for men and women workers at 65 years of age after they have met the requirements of the act in the specified years of work. It will mean a far more serene old age for millions and a bulwark throughout life to millions more.

FIVE GUINEA PIGS

The public has had its chance to see the famous Ontario quintuplets; now the scientists are beginning. Invitations have been sent to 200 leading authorities of Canada and the United States to study the growth and development of the Dionne babies since their birth. These scientists will gather in Toronto on October 30 under the auspices of St. George's School for Child Study headed by Dr. W. E. Blatz. He, along with Dr. Allan Roy Daffoe, the babies' physician, has been in charge of their education. They will go to Callander and study the children at first hand.

This study, with whatever conclusions it may bring regarding the quintuplets, their mental capacity and training, will be of widespread interest if it is genuinely scientific and frank. The little girls while doing well physically, do not seem to be making very good progress in speech and in some other ways. Recent pictures have not seemed so interesting.

This may be merely a temporary phase in their development. The 200 scientists would probably know.

Some species of dwarf octopi never became larger than an American half dollar.

Approximately 1,500,000 employees come within the scope of the recently-passed U. S. Railroad Retirement Act.

Half of the insane patients in New York state come from New York City, federal statistics show.

You can see on almost any front page these days that patriotism is the most easily exaggerated of the virtues.

Available mechanical power in the United States has increased from 70 million horsepower in 1900 to more than one billion at the present time, federal statistics show.

FRIENDLY TO THE WORKERS

There is no voice that could convince any large part of the people, including organized labor, that President Roosevelt is unfriendly to the workers. His administration has provided several just measures eagerly sought for generations by labor.

Among them are the minimum wage and hour law for women in industry, the Wagner act, legalizing the right to organize and the national labor relations board measure, the latter a means toward minimizing lockouts and strikes by a showing of fact before an impartial board to prevent disputes reaching open rupture or public disorder. It is notable there is not a lockout or strike in the country today where both sides have laid their cases before the board or a failure of settlement.

Gompers, Powderly, Mitchell and other late labor leaders groped about blindly in their day for just such measures with which to deflame the effort of labor toward a place in the sun. These laws would never have been acceptable to the general public had it not been for the evolution in thought on social betterment induced by President Roosevelt.

BILL HARD TO UNDERSTAND

From Baltimore Evening Sun.

Now that a bill has been passed designed to plug the loopholes in the tax laws, congressional experts, it is stated, will soon set to work upon a revision of the entire tax structure.

When the leak-plugging bill was passed in the house of representatives recently, in less time than it takes to read it, members were frank in stating that they didn't understand the bill.

When it reached the senate on Wednesday and was about to be jammed through, Senator Schwellenbach protested that he hadn't had time to read the bill. To this Senator Connolly replied that it would do no good for him to read the bill as he wouldn't understand it if he read it.

Later, according to a Washington dispatch, a veteran government attorney—his name wasn't mentioned—was quoted as having said that the bill was one of the most complicated he had ever helped to draft and predicted that none but skilled tax specialists fully understand it.

Let's hope that when the congressional experts get down to revamping the entire tax structure, they will bear these facts in mind and act accordingly.

It takes the light from the sun only eight and one-half minutes to reach the earth.

WASHINGTON—War and Navy Department officials have been receiving some highly illuminating reports lately, which indicate that submarine "piracy" in the Mediterranean and the threatened break between Russia and Italy have behind them just one all-important motive.

It all boils down to the fact that oil and gasoline are absolutely essential to the waging of modern warfare, and Loyalist Spain has been getting her oil and gasoline from Russia.

Italy has now been sinking Russian tankers.

Aside from this, reports from the Loyalists indicate that they have been doing fairly well. Their army is well organized. Order has been restored behind the lines. Crops are being harvested. A certain amount of munitions and army supplies are being manufactured.

But the sea link with Soviet Russia has been absolutely essential, and alleged Italian submarines now have cut that link. If this link remains cut it looks as if the Loyalist cause is lost.

This explains the severity of the Soviet notes to Italy. To them this is the most crucial moment in the entire Spanish war. A few weeks more, or at best a few months more of the Italian submarine blockade, and the Spanish Government cannot hope to hold out against the rebels.

Italian Subs
American naval officers are not saying so publicly, but there is not the slightest doubt in their minds that the submarine "pirates" in the Mediterranean are Italian.

Franco has two very decrepit submarines, neither able to submerge—at least, not with any likelihood of ever rising to the surface.

Portugal has no submarines. The Germans have been cooperating with the British and can account for all their vessels. The Italians, on the other hand have one of the most modern submarine fleets in Europe. Note: Only other submarines in that area are those of the Spanish Government, which would not sink their own tankers—though it is not outside the realm of possibility that they might have sunk the British vessel, in order to arouse British public opinion against Italy.

Justice Black
Not long before Hugo Black of Alabama was appointed Justice of the Supreme Court he let drop this remark to friends:

"The Supreme Court should write opinions which the man in the street can understand. Then if it wants to add a few foot-notes at the bottom for the benefit of the lawyers—why, O. K."

Hugo's friends are looking forward to the pleasure of reading the new Justice's first opinions.

No Labor Peace
William Green's "harmony proposal," made in a press interview at Atlantic City, was a corking news story, but as a serious basis for peace with the CIO, he might have saved his breath.

(He offered to take the ten original CIO unions back into the AFL fold and to arbitrate the jurisdiction over the 2,500,000 CIO members who subsequently joined CIO ranks.)

Inside fact is that John L. Lewis et al. have no desire for harmony with their old craft union friends. The only offer they will entertain is complete surrender.

Key to their confidence is their membership of 3,700,000, their belief that the A. F. of L. is doomed to disintegration, and their own firm conviction that they are children of destiny riding on history's bandwagon.

The importance of this conviction as a controlling factor in the situation cannot be over-estimated.

The Sea Gypsy

I am fevered with the sunset,
I am fretful with the bay,
For the wander-thirst is on me
And my soul is in Cathay.

There's a schooner in the offing,
With her topsails shot with fire,
And my heart has gone aboard her
For the Islands of Desire.

I must forth again tomorrow!
With the sunset I must be
Hull down on the trail of rapture
In the wonder of the sea.

A Truly Practical Sermon

A clergyman, in the course of his sermon, illustrated his point by saying, "You know you plant roses and geraniums in the sunshine, but if you want your fuchsias to grow you must keep them in the shade."

After the service a woman came up to him, her face beaming with pleasure.

"Oh, I'm so grateful for that sermon," she said, clasping his hand and shaking it warmly. His heart glowed, but only for a moment.

"Yes," she went on, "I never knew before what was the matter with my fuchsias."

The American Constitution

Questions and Answers Pertaining to the Constitution From "The Story of the Constitution" by the U. S. Sesqui-centennial Commission, Representative Sol Bloom of New York, Director General

QUESTIONS

1. What are the exact measurements of the originals of the Declaration of Independence and of the Constitution of the United States?
2. How many words are there in the texts in the Constitution, and how long does it take to read them?

ANSWERS

1. The Declaration of Independence: 2874 inches by 24 7/16 inches; the Constitution: Four sheets, approximately 28 3/4 inches by 23 3/4 inches each.

2. The Constitution has 4,543 words, including the signatures but not the certificate on the interlineations; and takes about half an hour to read. The amendments have 2,214 words and they can be read in about half the time the Constitution takes. The Declaration of Independence has 1,458 words, with the signatures, and takes about ten minutes to read.

Arithmetic Problems

By GARRY C. MEYERS, PH. D.
Head Department Parent Education,
Cleveland College, Western Reserve University

AS ALMOST any teacher or parent knows, many a child having trouble with arithmetic in the intermediate grades, still counts when he sees such combinations as 8 plus 5 equals, or 16 plus 7 equals, and that so long as he continues to count, his trouble persists. Yesterday I explained how this habit usually begins, how it is cultivated by the very way in which the child is taught in the early stages of addition and subtraction, and what may be done to correct it. Today I shall endeavor to show how this counting habit may easily be prevented.

Far more parents than teachers will agree with me. But let us parents remember that it is not within our province to tell the teacher what to do.

Here is my simple plan: As you begin the child at home or school on numbers, give him abundant experience at counting and writing the number symbols first to 20 and later to 100; also of learning roughly the relative magnitudes of these numbers as more or less, without ascertaining how many more or less.

Shift About

Then give the child abundant experience with objects and sequences whereby he learns that two numbers together make a larger number. But do not keep him at this activity with a view to having him learn any of the addition or subtraction combinations. Purposely shift from one to another so he might not learn any of these combinations in this manner. Let him learn by counting, for example, that by putting together 4 and 7, he gets a number bigger than either 4 or 7. When you are ready to teach him addition, present first those combinations which do not easily lend themselves to counting, such as 6 and 7 are 13; 7 and 6 are 13, and have him learn them mechanically. It is well to present them in pairs, for learning economy. Next present such as 5 and 8 are 13, in the column-form, then 8 and 5 are 13. Two pairs at a period may be enough. Then make up little story problems in which these facts are used, but don't present the problem before the fact involved has been learned. Do not present such combinations as 1 and 1, 2 and 1, 3 and 2, until practically all the larger combinations have been learned. I shall be glad to hear from those who would disagree.

Who is entitled to the parking space when almost simultaneously a driver starts backing into a space as another driver behind him starts a forward movement into the same space?

John Day, formerly of Decatur, Ill., and now employed at the Missouri Pacific shops, has had such an experience and wants to be enlightened. An interesting story of what happened in similar circumstances in Decatur is produced by Mr. Day from his home-town newspaper:

"A five-minute sitdown strike in which two women tried to out-sit each other to gain possession of a parking stall drew a crowd of nearly two dozen male spectators."

"Just as one woman backing into the stall had pulled the rear of her auto into the curb, the second woman drove in from behind managing to get the front part of her machine parked, but blocking the way for the first woman to finish backing in."

"There they sat—neither saying a word and looking at each other only with hasty glances. Neither gave any indication of yielding to the other and a crowd gathered."

"Finally a self-appointed magistrate from the group of bystanders approached the woman who had driven head-on into the stall and informed her that the law was on the side of the other woman. She accepted his ruling without argument and drove off."

But in any event sign your name to indicate good faith as we desire all communications to bear signature. Letters on any topic of interest are welcome as long as they are not too controversial.

Diet and Health

by DR. LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

The question comes about a middle-aged man who has complained of spots floating before his eyes for the last two years. They always are present, but exaggerated in the presence of bright light. At night, while driving, they are noticed floating in the glare of an approaching automobile. He says that more and more spots occur as time goes on and he worries for fear he is going blind. Examination by an oculist shows normal vision and some spots seen by the ophthalmoscope in the liquid vitreous of the eyeball. The patient describes them as floating strings.

Spots before the eyes are of two general kinds—due to nervousness or actual opacities in one of the chambers of the eye.

There are two chambers inside the eyeball, one in front of the lens and one behind it. The front chamber is filled with a thin fluid almost the consistency of water, and indeed named after water, as it is called the "aqueous humor." Opacities in this chamber are rare. The fluid behind the lens, the vitreous humor, is thicker, liquid gelatinous in consistency. It is transparent and has no blood vessels (in adult life), but receives its nourishment from the retina and other surrounding structures.

Make Victims Nervous

Being more organized than the aqueous, opacities are common in the vitreous. Often they are due to small hemorrhages into the fluid, the extravasated blood organizing into a solid particle. Sometimes membranes form in the vitreous.

Naturally these spots are enlarged by the projection of the visual image, and undoubtedly they are annoying. Just how annoying depends upon how nervous the temperament of the patient is. When there is a bright light ahead, the opacities naturally show up more clearly.

Muscae Volitantes is the name given to motes before the eyes without any appreciable change in the vitreous. They are caused by shadows cast on the retina by the cells normally found in the vitreous, and are present in all eyes under certain circumstances such as exposure to a uniform bright surface. They are found more frequently in errors of refraction and the symptoms may be exaggerated by constitutional, such as digestive, disturbances.

There is no danger of blindness involved in the symptoms of spots before the eyes.

CHAPTER 49

IT WAS three days before Garrett Warren was pronounced safely on the road to recovery. During those days Sandy fretted in jail, cursing anew his uncontrollable temper which caused him so much grief. Not only had he complicated his courtship of Marcia, but it had finally plunged him into a fix from which there might be no escape. He spent three days of terror such as he had never known, wondering if he was to be held responsible for the death of another human being. He could think no further ahead than that: to know whether or not Garrett would live.

When he finally received the welcome news that the man was recovering and, furthermore, that he had refused to prosecute his tempestuous assailant, Sandy knew merciful peace.

Marion waited only long enough to be sure Gary would recover and that Sandy was to be released, and then packed her bags for a much needed vacation. She was physically and spiritually exhausted, drained of all energy after the dramatic events of the last week.

Suddenly she felt a yearning for her grandmother, upon whom she could always depend for love and understanding. Sending a wire advising her of her proposed visit, Marcia prepared to close her apartment indefinitely. Listlessly she packed her drawing board and papers into the window seat, taking with her only a small portfolio containing proofs of the drawings for the book. With sudden thoughtfulness, she realized the little old lady at La Cresta would be proud to see this new evidence of her granddaughter's success.

Marcia phoned Gary's apartment at the University club to bid him farewell, and was touched when he urged her to "Come back as soon as you feel you can. We have so much to do, strictly business, you understand."

From the carefree tones of his voice she could never have guessed the heartbreak it hid, but she knew. She turned from the phone, hesitating only a second before she decided against calling Sandy. In spite of all Marie had said, she didn't feel there was anything more she could do to salvage their wrecked romance.

On the spur of the moment, she decided to invest some of her recent earnings in a little car, and hastily called a friend who sold used automobiles. Late that afternoon she "owned" a rather battered looking yellow coupe. Later the same day she pointed the little car toward La Cresta, racing its noisy engine in her impatience to reach her destination.

She wanted no time to think, no time to remember the unhappiness that had flooded upon her in the past weeks. Deep in her heart was a feeling that if she could have time to reorganize her life in the peaceful setting by the sea, she might find courage to go on. But tearing along the familiar coast road, she thought again of the people whose lives had been entwined with hers during the past year. The men she found it easy to classify; they were either good or bad, with few contradictory features. Sandy and Gary were two of a kind: idealistic, honest, fine. But Abe Zimmerman—she turned her thoughts to him. Greedy for money, he was easily influenced by the tricky Hartley. She wondered where Abe had turned after having forfeited his business.

If she could have seen Abe buying scrap paper and coining money through a paper-converting patent, she would have smiled. Abe always could make money out of things other people overlooked. Hartley she eliminated from her consideration. It was obvious the kind of no-good he was.

As a rule, the men kept their personal lives entirely separate from their business. But what of women? She saw them as a complicated group, no two alike, and swayed by a hundred different emotions. Usually they found it necessary to decide whether love or a career was more vital to their happiness; it was seldom they could do justice to both. There were only a few like Lona, who could make such a phenomenal success of both business and pleasure. Landers found her real life in the impersonal world of literature, while Mazie's workaday never made any impression on those giddy hours after the office was closed.

She thought then of the intense, grasping Paula who was trying to wrest personal happiness out of her business world. Ellen was the strangest paradox of all, wanting one thing and then experiencing it, only to find it did not bring the much wanted happiness. Marcia herself was full of conflicting emotions, realizing too late that real love such as Sandy's was too necessary to be put off vaguely until some "tomorrow" which now would never come.

"Too bad there are no rules that can be depended upon to lead us down a straight and narrow path to happiness," she thought futilely, recognizing that so many different personalities could never be guided by any one rule. "We have to work our problems out by the old trial-and-error method—and woe unto us if our errors are too costly."

She realized then how steep a price she had paid when she'd insisted on putting her love off until she experimented with a career, and lost Sandy before she knew what she was doing.

She stopped once for lunch, and a little more than an hour later she recognized the familiar landmarks of La Cresta to the south. The tiny houses and the picturesque palms held a personal welcome for her, and she quickened her speed. Driving down the quaint little streets of the town she saw an occasional friendly face, and smiled in greeting.

Mrs. Madden stood by the gate as she drove up the incline toward the Great Palm Point, excitedly waving a wisp of a handkerchief in greeting. The girl tumbled from the car, and literally fell into her grandmother's arms.

"My, you've never been this glad to see me in all your life," the little old lady said in a puzzled tone. "It's a wonder you wouldn't come here more than once a year if you're so pleased to get here!"

Affectionately she gazed at the girl, now dusty and tired, but so obviously glad to be with her. From Marcia, her eyes traveled to the car she had driven.

"What in the world is that?" she said. "Reminds me of the old horseless carriage days, I declare."

"I'm just the bird from that gilded cage," Marcia said jokingly. Then more seriously she explained, "I was in such a hurry to get here, that I just bought the first thing I could see."

"It might have paid you to keep your eyes open a little longer," the old lady said with a wry smile. "However, you got here, and that's one thing in its favor. Come on in and let's talk."

Reclining on the comfortable old couch on the sun porch, Marcia took a deep breath. "I told you I'd come to you if ever I needed help, dearest. I think maybe I'm a little late because it looks as if I have made a terrific mess out of this whole year."

Mrs. Madden assured the girl of her understanding, "no matter what." Then wisely she urged Marcia to unburden herself for she realized that until her conscience was clear there would be no rest for her.

She was in turn indignant, furious and sympathetic as Marcia told her in disjointed sentences of her trouble at Acme, the black-market that had made life almost unbearable, and the continual misunderstandings with Sandy that had contributed to her unhappiness. Finally, she revealed Paula's part in their romantic mixup and then she confessed the events of the last week in a rush of jumbled words.

"My!" said her grandmother. "My, my." She had no words to offer, but already her mind was sifting through the "evidence" to find some way to bring the errant Sandy back to her child. That Marcia's feelings had grown beyond the selfish love of almost a year ago, she felt sure. Anxiously, she groped for some clue that would help her bring these two stubborn hearts together.

It wasn't till later that evening, when she was proudly exclaiming over Marcia's newest drawings, that a gleam of satisfaction showed in her bright blue eyes. Urging Marcia to retire early, she closed her door softly and stood looking at the pictures she held in her hand. Then with a happy smile on her face, she sat down at her spinnet desk and in her cramped penmanship she addressed a long letter to Andrew Knight, Esq.

Supreme Court Justice Black Is Still Silent

pointment. When reached in London, he refused to comment.

Several senators who voted "no" when the senate confirmed Black's nomination by an overwhelming vote, agreed that his position as a member of the supreme court was secure. Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg, (R-Mich.), suggested the senate should reopen the matter of Black's confirmation if "unequivocal proof" linked him with the Klan. Previously Senator David Walsh, (D-Mass.), asserted President Roosevelt should demand Black's resignation if the newspaper article was "owed to the President, the senate and the country to declare publicly whether he is a member of the Klan and if so to declare in unmistakable language his repudiation of the Ku Klux Klan and its principles."

Any action in the Black appointment now must come from the President, declared Walsh, Massachusetts' senior senator. He suggested that President Roosevelt could ask an impartial agency to investigate "the alleged new evidence that he (Black) is a Klansman" and if it were found to be true, could "ask for his resignation."

"The only practicable thing that can be done to prevent Senator Black from serving on the U. S. supreme court is through presidential action. It is inconceivable that the President believes for one moment that Senator Black was a member of the Ku Klux Klan at the time of the appointment, or that he thought Black had any sympathy with the principles of that organization."

"The President could now, in view of correct. Senator King, (D-Utah) expressed the view nothing could be done now while two other Democratic senators, Pope of Idaho and Logan of Kentucky, staunchly defended the Alabama.

President Roosevelt, who named Black to the court, made no comment. Attorney General Homer S. Cummings issued a statement saying the Alabama's "suitability" was "beyond question."

Anxious For Black Statement. CLINTON, Mass., Sept. 14.—(AP) Senator David I. Walsh (D-Mass.), today declared Justice Hugo Black of the alleged new evidence that he is a Klansman and which was never before him or the senate, ask some impartial agency to obtain all the facts and, if the President, through such an investigation, found Black to be a member of the Ku Klux Klan, he can ask for his resignation.

"In any event, it seems to me Black owes it to the President, the senate and the country, to publicly declare whether or not he is a member of the Klan and to indicate in unmistakable language his repudiation of the Ku Klux Klan and its principles."

"The senate cannot act until January and then it can only investigate the facts, but could not remove him even if he was found to be a member of the Klan."

"I repeat, it seems to me that a public statement should be made by Black to relieve the President of embarrassment and the charge of selecting, unknowingly of course, for the supreme court, a Klansman. In this connection it should be remembered Black was given the large vote for confirmation that he received in the senate, not so much for his own qualification or his own merit, but because Democrats had faith in the President, believed he was entitled to name one who possessed his own economic policies and accordingly supported him."

Klan "Supported" Copeland. ATLANTA, Ga., Sept. 14.—(AP)—Imperial Wizard Hiram W. Evans of the Ku Klux Klan said today the Klan "supported" Senator Royal S. Copeland, of New York, in his 1936 senatorial race.

Evans' statement followed assertions by Senator Copeland, a candidate for mayor of New York, that Supreme Court Justice Hugo L. Black "should resign at once" in view of allegations he is a member of the Ku Klux Klan. Evans said attacks on Black are "simply the result of a New York political issue."

Wizard Evans declared: "Senator Copeland is a good friend of mine and I think he is the best candidate in a bad lot seeking the New York mayorship." Earlier he had predicted Senator Copeland would be defeated.

The Klan chieftain refused to say definitely whether Justice Black ever wore the white robe of Klansmen.

"I know he is not a member now," he asserted. "I have more to do than ramble through millions of membership cards to find out if he ever held membership."

In Birmingham, Senator Bankhead (D-Ala.) said "if the senate can reopen consideration of Justice Hugo Black, it also can reconsider its confirmation of Justices Butler, McReynolds and Sutherland, the conservative members of the court of whom there has been so much criticism."

The argument whether Black is a member of the Ku Klux Klan was termed by the senator as "a rattling of old dry bones."

"The matter was resurrected," said Bankhead with whom Black represented Alabama in the senate, "in the interest of Senator Copeland's New York campaign. The matter was finally settled when Black was confirmed, took the oath and received his commission."

Five Indicted Held In Robbery of Bank and Trust Company

running for sheriff he continued to make his investigations and giving what information he obtained to Colonel Casteel and the F. B. I. agents.

Colonel Casteel has made many trips, as has Sheriff Marlin, over several states in obtaining information, and taking persons familiar with the holdup to look over suspects.

Major bank robberies conducted by gangs have been on a decrease on only recent robberies reported are those of Mountain Grove on August 16, The University Bank in Kansas City, June 30 and that of Cairo, Mo., about the middle of June. These robberies have practically been cleared up by agents from the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

"I certainly am glad this robbery has been cleared up and the participants are now under arrest," Sheriff Marlin said. "We have known for some time who the men were but could not make this public until after indictments were returned and arrests made."

Sheriff Marlin also said he would contact Mr. Brantley to learn if the men could be brought to Sedalia for trial, but doubted if this would be done inasmuch as they were indicted by a federal grand jury. They no doubt will be tried in the federal court at Kansas City, it was indicated by other officials.

Arrests Monday Night

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 14.—(AP)—Dwight Brantley, agent in charge of the Federal Bureau of Investigation office here, announced last night the roundup of five men, he said had been secretly indicted in connection with the $18,409 day-light robbery of the Sedalia Bank and Trust Co., Sedalia, Mo., on March 19, 1935.

Final arrests were made in Kansas City, Kas., and Lutherville, Ark., last night, Brantley said.

The five, named in secret indictments returned by the federal grand jury last Friday are Albert C. Gladson, 39; Hubert Munger, 45; Glen Van Hook, 39; John W. Davidson, 50, and Alton Crapo, 33, Brantley announced.

Gladson, an ex-convict, was arrested last night in Kansas City, Kas., and Munger was taken in Lutherville, Ark., Brantley reported. He refused to give details of the captures.

Van Hook and Crapo are in jail in Wichita, the F. B. I. chief disclosed. Davidson, he said, is serving a manslaughter sentence in the Missouri state penitentiary.

Federal officers acted on the robbery because the bank was a member of the Federal Reserve system.

No money was recovered, Brantley announced.

Holdup Carefully Planned

The arrests recalled a carefully planned holdup that began when two of the bandits accosted James E. Norlin, assistant bank cashier, as he returned to his home at 12:30 on the morning of the robbery.

They guarded Norlin's household through the early morning hours and grilled him on details of the bank's operation.

At 8 a. m. one of the masked men accompanied the official to the bank while the other guarded those in the home.

The masked gunman met three other masked associates at the bank where they waited until 8:30 when the time lock on the vault door opened permitting them to take the money and escape.

Accused in Killing

Gladson's police record at Kansas City, Kansas, shows he was sentenced to a life term for the murder of James L. David, a special policeman for the Missouri Pacific railroad, May 19, 1923. In 1928, his sentence was commuted to fifteen years by Governor Ben S. Paulen, and he was released upon serving that time with allowances for good behavior.

In October of 1934, Crapo was accused of the slaying of C. W. Arnold, bank president, in the robbery of the Hays, Kas., Farmers State bank. Officials of the State Exchange bank at Yates Center, Kas., two years later identified Crapo and Van Hook as two of four bandits who robbed the bank of $5,000. Four days later they also were identified as two bandits in a Colby, Kas., wholesale grocery company robbery.

They were arrested last March in Kansas City, Kansas, by federal officers, charged with carrying sawed-off shotguns without having them registered under the federal firearms act.

Davidson, who formerly lived at 1005 West Alton street, Independence, was charged with the slaying of William A. (Biddy) Dickenson, a convict, in Independence, June 26, 1936. Dickenson had been tried about three weeks earlier at Bethany, Mo., on burglary and larceny charges, receiving a 90-year sentence from which he had appealed.

The next day, Davidson made an oral confession to Russell W. Gabriel, assistant county prosecutor, admitting the killing. Davidson later pleaded not guilty at his arraignment.

Munger began a 2-year sentence in 1915 at the Oklahoma state penitentiary for transporting a stolen motor car into the state. He served three and a half years of a 5-year sentence in the Kansas state penitentiary on a conviction for grand larceny in 1920. After his release he was arrested several times in Central and Southeastern Kansas.

Hitler Enigma To Great Powers Of The World

convention, just closed, he stressed the need of colonies as the principal present issue of German foreign policy. Either Hitler has changed his mind, or the colonial issue is a good bargaining point in negotiations for access to raw materials.

Policy Has Changed

German policy in embattled Spain also has changed. A year ago it seemed certain that Germany would jump into the Spanish fray with both feet on the insurgent side. A few months ago Foreign Minister Konstantin von Neurath assured a group of foreign correspondents within my hearing, "we have but one interest in Spain, namely, that she shall not become Communist. Beyond that we are uninterested."

Since then German interest in Spain has been less direct and active. Adolf Hitler, sensing a new international and domestic situation, intuitively decided not to commit himself too closely in Spain. At the closing session of the Nurnberg congress Monday, however, he again placed himself solidly behind Generalissimo Franco, the insurgent leader.

Mussolini's visit to Berlin is impending. There probably will be more pomp and circumstance than the German capital has seen since the late Emperor Franz Joseph of Austria-Hungary or Czar Nicholas of Imperial Russia visited Kaiser Wilhelm II.

Yet everyone knows that when Hitler visited the Italian Duce at Venice in June, 1934, the two did not hit it off well, in fact, there was a marked cooling of relations, which in turn was superseded by an apparently more intimate friendship than ever, once the Spanish civil war started. Only the future can tell how lasting the new cordiality will be.

Years For Colonies

A year ago, at the annual Nurnberg party rally, Hitler caused world comment by expressing a yearning for Russian territory. "If we had the Urals," he said, "if we possessed Siberia, if we had the Ukraine, National Socialist Germany would be swimming in prosperity."

Hitler's propaganda minister, Dr. Joseph Paul Goebbels, berated Soviet Russia in a manner that led many to believe a rupture of diplomatic relations inevitable.

A year has passed and there is less talk of a Russo-German war. Hitler has been at great pains to tell the world at Nurnberg that Germany wants peace, and peace only.

Meanwhile in the Wilhelmstrasse, as elsewhere in the world, the quality of Russian bombers and tanks as demonstrated in Spain has become known. It also is known that Japan, another bosom friend of the Third Reich, has her hands full in China.

Further, the French, at the moment, do not seem to lay as much stress on the Russo-French alliance as they did some months ago. Hence Hitler, again working intuitively, seems more interested in weaning France away from Russia than in getting into a fight with the Soviets.

In fact, effort after effort is being made by Germany to come to a working agreement with France. When Hitler is reminded that in his biography he designated France as the Reich's arch-enemy, he replies simply: "Enter my corrections on the pages of history."

Again a change of policy. A condition to a Franco-German rapprochement, however, is an understanding with Great Britain. Hitler knows this. "We must come to an arrangement with England, cost what may," he is reliably reported to have said on repeated occasions.

To the interested bystander, he seems to take a zig-zag road to reach this goal. That is because here, too, Hitler chooses intuitively the particular method to be invoked at any particular time.

What he may do in the future is anybody's guess. Intuition, however, will be the Fuehrer's guiding star.

COMPENSATION CASE UNDER ADVISEMENT

A compensation case of J. W. Williams against Guy A. Thompson, trustee, for the Missouri Pacific railroad, was taken under advisement this afternoon by Judge Dimmitt Hoffman in circuit court.

shells around the forts, the damage was said to have been negligible. Most of the shots were reported to have fallen far short of their mark.

A squadron of Chinese bombers from the Canton air base dumped explosives on the attacking warcraft. The Kwangtung government reports said the Japanese warships were driven off and headed down stream to the open sea.

The Pearl river was closed eight miles below Canton yesterday except for a narrow channel. Chinese sank the hulks of old warships and junks filled with cement.

Hope To Take Tsangchow

By JAMES D. WHITE
WITH THE JAPANESE ON THE HOPE FRONT IN NORTH CHINA, Sept. 14.—I rode down south of Tientsin today where the Japanese are bogged down for the time being and found my old friend, Rensuke Isogai, in command and confident that he soon would take Tsangchow.

Tsangchow is an important town on the railroad midway from Tientsin to Lush Shantung province on the south. There are strong Chinese defenses there, but Isogai did not seem to think they would be hard to crack.

Isogai, who used to be military attaché at Shanghai, was at Machang, where the Japanese have temporary headquarters for their push down from Tientsin.

It was a surprise to see him, because the Japanese are not telling anyone in Tientsin who their commanders are.

He told me there was no doubt that his men were more numerous than the Chinese on this front. Once they take Tsangchow, he hinted, one column will march on into Shantung and the other will strike westward across Hopeh toward Paotingfu.

It is obvious to me now that the in the middle of the night without fighting after the Japanese had prepared for a great battle.

In the Tangkuantun area, however, there are signs of fierce and protracted fighting.

Only rough estimates are possible on the number of Japanese troops in this area. But at least 50,000 are on hand and foreigners from Taky say transport arrivals average nine at every tide. Many carry military supplies.

However, the roads south of Tientsin still are bogged by rain and the Japanese communications lines have been damaged further by the destruction of a railroad bridge north of Machang. East boats now are being used to transport supplies down the Grand Canal.

Orders To Remove Consuls

TOKYO, Sept. 14.—Japan's foreign office announced in angry language today that "Moscow has dared to notify the Tokyo government" that it must take its consuls away from Odessa and Novosibirsk.

This, said the communique, was in spite of the terms of an agreement of 1925, under which each power was permitted nine consulates in the other's country.

Soviet Russia, however, since has closed two consulates in Japan and "has decided it will not recognize business" conducted at the Japanese Odessa and Novosibirsk consulates after tomorrow.

Japan thereupon is closing the consulates, today's announcement said, but "declares its reservation of rights."

Bombard Customs Station

HONGKONG, Sept. 14.—(AP)—A Japanese cruiser and two destroyers bombarded the Chinese customs station at Samun near this British Crown colony tonight after Chinese warplanes and land batteries had struck Japanese fleet in a major naval battle.

The Japanese warships were reported to have been routed by aerial bombs and cannon of the Bocca Tigris forts at the Canton river entrance.

The Samun customs station was badly damaged, however. It is on the route to the metropolis of Canton.

PRESIDENT CALLS IN HIS CABINET

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—President Roosevelt, back in Washington today from an 18-day vacation, called in his cabinet to survey recent happenings in the far East and Europe.

The meeting of the official family, advanced from Friday, was set after a luncheon conference with Secretary Hull, who kept the chief executive informed on foreign developments during his stay away from the capital.

Following his recent custom of interviewing overseas travelers in and out of official life, the President also was expected to talk with Governor George H. Earle, of Pennsylvania, just back from Europe. The governor and Mrs. Earle were invited to tea.

Several important decisions confronted the President on his return. For one thing he must decide whether he will make a trip to the west coast, starting late this month, to inspect federal projects and sound out sentiment on various administration objectives.

He also has yet to make up his mind whether to call a special session of congress.

Cool weather calls for heavy clothing. Are you prepared? Call 512 today. Parisian Cleaners.—Adv.

STOCKS PRICES SOAR IN A STRONG RALLY

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—In the most important rally since June stocks swept upward today with leaders regaining $1 to $5 of yesterday's losses and some shares adding an even more impressive total.

The advance spread to the bond market where U. S. government issues extended gains scored yesterday following announcement of the treasury's gold sterilization program. Corporate bonds likewise worked into higher ground.

Commodities inclined higher. At Chicago wheat improved 1 1/2 to 2 1/4 cents a bushel. Corn advanced 1/2 cent to 1 1/2 cents and oats climbed a fraction. Cotton made modest gains.

The stock market opened higher on heavy volume, but profit taking intervened and the pace slowed. For most of the afternoon affairs moved at a jog, but while most shares finished under their best for the day the rally held remarkably well.

SUGGESTS SERVICE CHARGES BY BANKS

DONIPHAN, Mo., Sept. 14.—Banks as a whole are making "substantial progress" in meeting the competition of government lending agencies, C. A. Wisdom of Green Ridge, president of the Missouri Bankers Association, said here today at the first of a series of group meetings.

This competition, he said, "will continue to be a very serious matter until the government stops its subsidy. Eventually this subsidy will stop. When it will stop will probably depend on when a majority of the people feel that the federal debt has reached a point where the credit of the government is in serious danger."

Citing figures to show many small banks in Missouri are operating at a loss, Wisdom advocated "adequate" service charges.

"I am very sure," he said, "that the smaller communities which now enjoy the services of a bank would much rather pay moderate service charges than to be without a bank."

Whether you know it or not, there is an appreciable number of banks in Missouri on the way out."

BANK AT GALENA CLOSED AT NOON

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Sept. 14.—The Bank of Galena in Stone county closed its doors at noon today after 47 years of operation. On order of the board of directors it was placed in the hands of the state banking department for liquidation.

T. W. Henry, state deputy commissioner of finance, said deposits were fully covered by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

President of the bank is Dr. J. C. R. Doggett of Crane; cashier is O. E. Andrews of Galena.

When in Sedalia Mr. Pierce was a machinist helper for the Missouri Kansas Texas railroad.

Since leaving Sedalia he has traveled all over the world.

Accord By Nine Nations To Put Stop To Piracy

cia republican government nor Francisco Franco's insurgent regime. The pact, moreover, exempts Spanish merchant vessels from protection of the international patrol.

Signatories To Pact

Signatories of the pact in addition to Britain and France were Russia, Rumania, Turkey, Egypt, Bulgaria, Yugoslavia and Greece.

France and Russia expressed satisfaction with the accord through their foreign ministers, but Maxim Litvinoff, the Soviet representative, took exception to the fact that protection was not extended to vessels of the Spanish government.

Litvinoff said, however, that the conference was successful because participants were "on the side of peace."

Congratulating the Nyon delegates on their work, Foreign Minister Yvon Delbos of France said: "Without overlooking other forms of aggression with which we will be concerned at Geneva, you have succeeded first in settling the gravest problem—that of submarine attacks."

Delbos did not disclose, however, the nature of the "other forms" which would occupy the League at Geneva. He declared that only Italy's acceptance of the invitation to participate in the naval patrol was necessary for a happy ending. This has been reported extended "in principle."

Britain's foreign secretary, Anthony Eden, closed the conference with similar expressions of satisfaction.

Claim Technical Victory

MOSCOW, Sept. 14.—(AP)—A technical victory over Italy—although an incomplete one—was claimed today by the Soviet press as a result of the Nyon anti-piracy conference.

Izvestia, the government organ, pointed out that the Mediterranean patrol plan "does not deprive the Soviet Union in case of necessity of the right to carry out independent action to defend merchant shipping against any interference on the open sea."

This was interpreted by foreign circles as an indication Soviet warships would be sent into the Mediterranean proper to convoy Russian freighters only if the mysterious piratical attacks continued.

Pravda, the Communist party organ, asserted that, while Britain and France called the Nyon conference, the results were obtained only through outspoken activity of the Soviet Union which formally accused Italy of two submarine attacks on Soviet cargo ships.

Generally the two newspapers, both of which reflect the government view, regarded the Nyon agreement as showing:

- 1—Italy and Germany failed to wreck the conference.
- 2—Premier Mussolini's plans to make the Mediterranean "an Italian sea" had been upset.
- 3—"The idea of collective security still lives and aggressive acts can be limited."

AGREE FOR DIVORCE TO MRS. MANVILLE

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—Tommy Manville got down to serious business today with his fourth wife, the beautiful blonde Marcelle Edwards, and made a "gentleman's agreement," it was learned, whereby she will go to Reno for a divorce.

The matter, which has kept Tommy in a restless state for months past, was settled at a conference at which Dr. William H. Bishop, an old friend of the asbestos heir, acted as mediator.

Present were Tommy and his blonde secretary, Dolly Goering; his lawyer, Frank B. Devlin; and Marcelle's attorneys, Samuel A. Berger and Carl Helm.

Marcelle herself wasn't there. She spent most of the afternoon sitting in the 21 Club, waiting for news. On the telephone she said she would see her lawyers tonight and probably fly to Reno tomorrow.

Tommy, who spent about $11,000 a couple of weeks ago seeking a lawyer in full page newspaper advertisements, carried eleven checks to the conference. The amount of the settlement he will make upon the fourth Mrs. Manville was not disclosed, but it was learned his freedom will cost him about $200,000 or more.

The playboy, who regards himself as a connoisseur of blondes—"I'm crazy, crazy as the devil—about blondes!"—said he was relieved everything appeared to be settled, but he would not discuss the case.

The checks were deposited in a Chase National Bank vault and will be handed over to Marcelle when she has her divorce.

JURY AGAIN TO VOTE FRAUD PROBE

By The Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 14.—The federal grand jury went behind bolted doors today to renew investigation of vote fraud in last November's election.

Records of a precinct in the 15th ward, where one indictment naming several defendants has already been returned, were being considered.

Before it recessed for the summer, the grand jury returned 23 indictments, naming as defendants 156 election officials and party workers. There have been 46 convictions on the charge of conspiracy to deprive voters of their rights of franchise. Twelve persons pleaded "nolo contendere" falling back on the mercy of the court. One pleaded guilty, there were mistrials in the cases of

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food does not digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sick and the world looks pink.

Laxatives are only makeshifts. A mere "filler" will not get you back to the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Stubbornly refuse anything else, etc.

Debt Owed Charles Valentine Riley For World-wide War on Insect Pests

Compiled by
Historical Society of Missouri
Floyd C. Shoemaker, Secretary

Today, with insects outnumbering all other forms of life combining and with scientists going so far even as to predict that the future war of annihilation is to be waged between man and the insects, the debt owed by agriculturists to Charles Valentine Riley, Missouri's first man to conduct a world-wide war against insects, can scarcely be estimated.

That cutworms, army worms, Hessian flies, grasshoppers, boll weevils and malaria-bearing mosquitoes were any part of an entomologist's business in Riley's day was scarcely dreamed of. Yet Charles Valentine Riley, by demonstrating the practicability of the biological control of insect pests by means of their natural enemies, made war upon the insect world and revolutionized the science of entomology. Largely through his efforts, the science of entomology, once contemptuously regarded as the pastime of the "butterfly chaser," became one of the greatest sciences for the advancement of civilization.

Riley was born in Chelsea, London. In 1860, at the age of seventeen, family financial troubles caused him to emigrate to the U. S. where he took up farming in Illinois. Here, while acquiring a practical knowledge of agriculture, he made an intensive study of entomology from first hand field observations. While in Illinois, an article written and illustrated by him on the Colorado potato beetle, which had recently made its appearance in the middle west, attracted the attention of the Prairie Farmer. By the age of twenty-one, he had become entomological editor of this outstanding journal.

In 1866, Riley, then only twenty-three, was appointed to the newly created office of state entomologist of Missouri, a position which he held until 1877. During this period, his nine annual reports, which embodied the results of his vast observations of the life cycles of insects and which, written in simple terms, did much to arouse Missouri farmers to the importance of the practical application of entomology to the eradication of insect pests, made him famous. It has been said of Riley's Missouri Reports that the modern science of economic entomology is based upon them and dates from their publication.

Studied Locust Plague
In 1877, as a result of his studies of the plague of the Rocky Mountain locust which ravished Missouri and the middle west from 1873 to 1877 and which brought Riley into great prominence in Missouri, he was appointed chief of the U. S. Entomological Commission, created for the investigation of this insect pest, his appointment transferred him from Missouri to the national field where he subsequently became head of the division of entomology of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

World-wide fame soon came to Riley. His invention of sprays and sprayers, his introduction of parasites and super-parasites, his breeding or selection of disease-resisting plant stock and his introduction of insect enemies as a means of insect control, brought savings of billions of dollars to European and American farmers. For one of his greatest successes, the saving of the grape fields of France from the disease of the Phylloxera insect which threatened to make a desert of the Bordeaux grape region, Riley was awarded the Cross of the Legion of Honor by the French government. Again, in 1888, when the citrus scale crept into California and threatened the orange industry, Riley was instrumental in introducing from Australia the ladybird beetle which brought about the eradication of the destructive scale.

Though essentially a field naturalist, Riley's writings were prodigious. Besides being one of the founders of the American Entomologist and the originator of the Journal, Insect Life, he was the author of more than 1,600 papers besides being the co-author of hundreds of others. Credit for much of his work, however, is said by Riley's critics to have belonged to his subordinates. Among the scientists whose admiration he won and with whom he corresponded was Charles Darwin.

In the eighties, Riley presented his large and valuable collection of insects, which he had spent approximately twenty-five years in collecting, to the National Museum. This collection, numbering more than 115,000 insects and more than 15,000 species, forms the nucleus of what is today one of the finest collections of its kind in existence.

In 1895, Riley resigned from office with the intention of spending the rest of his life in research. Unfortunately, before he could enter upon what promised to be the most productive period of his career, he was killed in an accident on September 14, 1895. Yet, before attaining the age fifty-three, Riley placed the U. S. in a position of leadership in a field in which it has never lost supremacy.

National Anthem Written 123 Years Ago After Attack on Fort

One hundred and twenty-three years ago today Francis Scott Key wrote the words to America's national anthem.

The melody of the anthem was originally that of an English drinking song. After Francis Scott Key's ballad was published anonymously in a Baltimore newspaper it was printed as a handbill and distributed. Early one morning in a Maryland tavern a theatrical performer and a Revolutionary veteran sang it to the tune of "To Anacreon in Heaven," a song of the Anacreon Club of London.

On September 14, 1814, Francis Scott Key, one of the leading men of Maryland, heard that a personal friend, a Dr. Beane, had been captured by the British and was being held on an English warship. He hurried to Baltimore and took a boat to the British fleet which was then some hundred miles from the city. The English were planning a bombardment of the town and to prevent any news of it from reaching the Americans, detained Key as they had his friend.

All through the night of the bombardment Key and his fellow patriots watched the American flag flying above Fort McHenry and when the dawn disclosed it still flying triumphantly over the fort Key was moved to write his stirring verses. The ships had fired 1,700 shells but killed only four Americans.

The first draft was written on the back of some letters while Key was still on the deck of the Minden.

The Baltimore "American" published it anonymously on September 21, 1814, under the title "The Defense of Fort McHenry."

The most plausible story of its appearance as a song relates that some days later a printer, Captain Benjamin Edess, brought a copy of it to the tavern of the Widow Berling. There an actor announced that it could be sung to the tune of

"To Anacreon in Heaven" at mounted a rush bottomed chair at performed for the company's edification.

From that beginning the song known as the "Bombardment of Fort McHenry" grew until it was accepted by almost everyone as the national anthem. However it was not until 1931 that President Hoover signed the bill making the "Star Spangled Banner" our national anthem.

LARGE PREMIUM LIST FOR ROYAL

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 14.—The premium lists of the 39th Annual American Royal Live Stock and Horse Show October 16 to 23 at just off the press and ready for distribution.

The Live Stock Premiums exceed $35,000 in cash and trophies for pure bred and commercial beef cattle, swine, sheep and draft horses, and for mules and poultry. Last year entries were received from 24 states and live stock exhibitors have so far indicated much greater interest on account of the improved crop and feed conditions, and a larger number of entries is already assured for this year.

Cash prizes amounting to $25,000 are being offered, besides a liberal number of trophies, in classes for roadsters, harness horses and ponies, three and five gaited saddle horses, hunters and jumpers, commercial draft horses, horse and mule pulling contests, drills by six-horse artillery teams hitched to gun carriages, and other special features. Special classes for Missouri, Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas and Oklahoma horses are provided this year to permit riders and owners who have not shown outside these five states during 1936 and 1937 to show their horses without the necessity of competing with nationally known stables in the open classes. Other new classes have also been added this year.

The horse show is the principal entertainment feature of the American Royal and brings together the very best specimens of horses to be found in America.

SITUATION AMONG BASEBALL PILOTS FOR 1938 SEASON

But Seven of Sixteen Managers Certain of Status Next Year

By ALLAN GOULD
NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—(P)—Here's the major league managerial situation, as it stands today in relation to 1938 job-holding prospects:

Signed and sealed: Bill Terry, New York Giants, new five-year contract as general manager, calling for estimated $40,000 yearly; Mickey Cochrane, Detroit Tigers, new two-year contract at estimated $30,000 per annum; Charley Grimm, Chicago Cubs, new one-year contract; Burleigh Grimes, Brooklyn Dodgers, new one-year $15,000 contract; Jimmie Dykes, Chicago White Sox, new two-year contract.

Hold-overs: Joe Cronin, Boston Red Sox, two years more on five-year contract; Connie Mack, Philadelphia Athletics, who has lifetime job.

Already out: Rogers Hornsby, St. Louis Browns, ousted July 21 and replaced for balance of season by Jim Bottomley; Chuck Dressen, Cincinnati Reds, unconditionally released yesterday, and replaced temporarily by Bobby Wallace.

Unsigned but due for renewals: Joe McCarthy, New York Yankees, whose two-year contract expires this season; Bill McKechnie, Boston Bees; Jimmy Wilson, Philadelphia Phillies; Bucky Harris, Washington Senators.

Unsigned and status in doubt: Steve O'Neill, Cleveland Indians; Pie Traynor, Pittsburgh Pirates; and Frank Frisch, St. Louis Cardinals.

Seven Certain On Status
On the basis of this summary, only seven of the 16 managers are certain of their 1938 status. Not all of the others are worrying, however.

There's no doubt Marse Joe McCarthy will be offered a renewal, probably on a long term basis and possibly at an increase over his current $35,000 salary. The Yankee pilot won't discuss the details with his boss, Col. Jacob Ruppert, until after the world series.

Similarly McKechnie can have the job of bossing the Bees as long as he wants. There's grounds for suspecting, however, that the squire of Wilkesburg, Pa., may be offered a pilot's job elsewhere on terms so flattering that he can't refuse and the Boston club can't match them.

Sunny Jim Bottomley may be given a full season chance to manage the Browns but the race is wide open for the Cincinnati job. Chief Scout Wallace, now in charge of the Reds, was manager of the St. Louis Browns in 1911-12.

Frisch hardly can be blamed for the shortcomings of the Cardinals this year but St. Louis observers have been discussing the probability of his replacement. It has been persistently rumored Frisch is in line to become field manager of the Giants, if and when General Manager Terry turns his attention exclusively to the front office.

O'Neill and Traynor both are on the spot. They cannot be blamed for mishaps that hurt the chances of the clubs they direct but demands for shakeups may force both to relinquish leaderships.

The list of experienced or available replacements is limited. Babe Ruth has been ambitious to get a big league manager's job ever since he quit the Browns, in 1935, but no club seems interested in the big fellow's potentialities. Rogers Hornsby, rated a great judge of talent, isn't likely to get a come-back chance, in view of the circumstances under which the Browns dropped him.

Among minor leaguers, Frank (Lefty) O'Doul of the San Francisco Seals, and Oscar Vitt, who piloted the Newark Bears to a record margin victory in the International League race this year, are rated high in managerial ability. O'Doul was mentioned for the Brooklyn post until Grimes' contract was renewed.

Tony Lazzeri, the Yankees' veteran second baseman, recently declared himself in a receptive mood, but did not reveal whether he had any definite prospects in mind. Chicago's veteran backstop, Luke Sewell of the White Sox and Gabby Hartnett of the Cubs, also have been linked with managerial gossip. Both rate high in qualifications for club leadership.

The Lake of the Ozarks

The fish will be weighed on accurate scales and measured lying on a flat surface, the length from tip of nose to fork of tail, the girth at widest part. If, in the opinion of the judges, there should be evidence of an attempt of fraud, the fish entered by that contestant shall not be accepted for competition and the contestant shall be disqualified. All judges shall have full authority to investigate and rule.

Contestants may enter not more than 3 small and large mouth, black or white bass; 2 wait-eyed pike; 5 blue gill or black perch and 3 crappie per day. All fish laws of the State of Missouri must be observed.

as a ground-gaining weapon.... He told a group of coaches a few days ago his team attempted an average of 33 passes a game last season.... He also said every time Jack Robbins drew his arm back in an attempt to toss the leather, Arkansas gained 7 1/2 yards.... You can't beat them figgers, gents.... Everybody up this way is agreed Don Budge will defend his Wimbledon title next year.... Same old story: Washington sports writers are raving about Sammy Baugh.

Note to H. P. W., Sioux Falls, Ia.: New York fight referees are paid on a sliding scale.... Ranging from $1,000 to $2,500; Arthur Donovan got $2,500 for refereeing the Farr-Louis match.... Syracuse will depend on sophomores for five or six varsity positions.... Baron Gottfried Von Cramm proved himself one swell sport and he can't come back to soon to suit American tennis fans.... Look for Jimmy Johnston to hob up any day now with an announcement that Bob Pastor and John Henry Lewis will fight at Ebbets Field in October.

Cliff Melton, stringbean southpaw for the Giants, is yearning to face the Yanks in the world's series.... The Yanks once gave him the gate.... It cost Vannie Albanese, former Syracuse star, real dough to play in the all-star game here last week.... He had registered at a theater for "bank night" and his name was in the first called Wednesday night when he was battling the Giants.... Brooklyn may try to buy southpaw Vito Tamulis from Newark.... Pedro Montanez, who already owns a bar in Harlem, is soaking his ring earnings in the real estate and building business in Puerto Rico.

Back in 1892, New Orleans put on a "carnival of champions" similar to the one Mike Jacobs plans at the Polo Grounds, September 23.... Three great ring kings risked their titles on successive evenings.... Two of them—Jack McAuliffe and Jack Shelly—will be Mike's guests a week from next Thursday night.... Has Ohr, who was national amateur bicycle champ in 1915, has just opened a bike store in Beverly Hills, Calif.... Steve Grenda, for four years field coach at Columbia, moved into Blue Ridge College at New Windsor, Md., this month as head coach.... London promoters are cabling Buddy Baer.

Down in Oklahoma they really aim to do something about it.... Out-of-state schools are doing a little poaching on the high school football preserves.... Southern California got Bob Peoples, the javelin tosser and one of the sweetest grid prospects the Sooner state has turned out in years.... Raymond Mallouf, the big Assyrian from Sayre, has hooked up with Southern Methodist.... Tommy Robertson, a third all-star, from Duncan, was snatched by Louisiana State.... Joe Dimaggio got a traffic ticket while hurrying to the Yankee Stadium yesterday.... He tried to tell the cop he was the real Dimag, but all the copper would say was "nerfs."

GIANTS AND CUBS TO FIGHT IT OUT IN PENNANT RACE

New York Team Out a Game and a Half In The Lead

By BILL BONI
Associated Press Sports Writer

To the utter confusion of tin pan alley, the Giants and Cubs have their eyes wide open, but they're definitely not dreaming.

Wrapped up in a pennant fight that's as close as a seal to his skin, the National League jumping jacks haven't time to dream. There's too much pressing business.

That business started today, and with a pronounced bang. The Giants, a game and a half in front, stacked up in a twin bill against the Pirates, while the Cubs jumped into an 11-game home stand with two against the Bees.

Manager Bill Terry has his pitching staff in satisfactory shape for this final swing through the west. Carl Hubbell and Al Smith, two of his three southpaws, were ready for today's calls, with Hal Schumacher, whose sudden recovery of control has been such a big help.

Cliff Melton, the first-year man who's an all-year sensation, and Harry Gumbert in line for future starting assignments. Right now it's his infield that's Memphis Bill's big headache. Hardly as steadfast as the rock-bound coast of Maine, it's shown definite gaps at the seams recently, notably around first base. Inexperienced Johnny McCarthy remains at that stand, however, for the very odd reason that he's been hitting too consistently to be displaced.

Giants Have Six Home Games

The Giants, with 24 games to go and three less defeats than the Cubs, play only six at home. The Bruins, to make things tougher, have 14 of their remaining engagements at Wrigley Field.

Right now everything points to three poker hands—full houses—when the Giants move into the Cub park a week from today for a three-game stay. Those games very well may be the clinchers in a race that, from a standpoint of conclusions definitely arrived at, might as well be starting all over again as going into the final three weeks' drive.

There is a possibility, however, that either contender will walk into the world series over a door-mat laid down by their respective "stooges." The Terrymen, who have beaten Brooklyn in 12 out of 15 tries, close out the year with three appearances in Flatbush. The Cubs, having won 12 of fifteen from the Cards, will meet them in six of their last ten games.

In the American League the Yanks set about the elimination of another "contender," the Indians. Having disposed of the Senators, Athletics and Browns, the Rupert riot squad removed all mathematical chance of Cleveland winning the pennant by taking three of their four games.

The Tigers opened their final eastern swing in Washington, the Browns were at Philadelphia and the Red Sox and White Sox had a day off.

TO SUPERVISE THE FREEING CHUKARS

JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 14.—The State Conservation Commission late yesterday named Dr. Rudolf Bennett, University of Missouri zoologist, to supervise distribution of chukar partridges, a game bird which is to be given a trial in Missouri this fall.

The commission also clarified its rule against stocking private lakes with fish. It held that any lake governed by the commission's regulations and open to the public for fishing without charge is a "public water" and subject to restocking.

This clarified its order of August 11 that fish from state hatcheries could no longer be distributed to private lakes.

Passing Sammy Baugh To Professionals

By DILLON GRAHAM
WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—(P)—They're sending Sammy Baugh, the Texas Christian slinging star, against perhaps the greatest passer in professional football in Sammy's salaried debut here Thursday night.

Slinging Sam, regarded as just about the tops last fall in inter-collegiate forward passing, will do the tossing for the Washington Redskins, eastern champions, against dead-eye Ed Danowski of the New York Giants.

Danowski, who has completed almost 50 per cent of his slips over a three-year professional stretch, and Arnold Herber of Green Bay stand out among professional passers.

Yet Ray Flaherty, the Redskins' coach, believes Baugh will outshine Danowski, though he has seen Baugh in only a few practice sessions.

"I'm convinced he'll match Danowski and then some," Ray says. "He has a natural way of throwing, as if he were tossing a baseball, and the ball hits its mark as sure as if you threw a baseball at a board fence ten feet away."

"The boys like to catch Baugh, too, which is a pretty good indication that Sammy throws the right kind of a ball."

CONSIDER FARR OR SCHMELING AS BEST FOR MATCH

Boxing Association Rates Them Choice To Meet Champion Louis

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., Sept. 14.—(P)—Germany's Max Schmeling and Tommy Farr of Wales were rated today by the National Boxing Association as the best of the challengers for Joe Louis' heavyweight crown.

Schmeling, who holds a knockout victory over the Brown Bomber, and Farr, defeated in his first title quest two weeks ago, ranked well above former champion Jimmy Braddock in the NBA's official ratings.

Back of the German and the Welshman came Bob Pastor of New York as No. 3 contender; Al Besto Lovell of the Argentine, No. 4; Bradlock No. 5; Tony Gallento of Newark, N. J., No. 6; Nathan Mann of New York City, No. 7; Al McCoy of Boston, No. 8; Arturo Goday of Chile, No. 9; and Roscoe Toles of Detroit, No. 10.

Louis was installed as the association's new champion despite President Joseph P. Maloney's criticism of the Bomber's showing in his fight with Farr. Maloney declared:

"He was saved by a decision handed to him on a silver platter."

Other Ratings Given.

In other divisions, the NBA champions were unchanged from last year. They included light heavyweight John Henry Lewis of Pittsburgh; middleweight Freddie Steele of Seattle; welterweight Barney Ross of Chicago; lightweight Lew Ambers of Herkimer, N. How Smart is Your Husband about COFFEE?

Is he a self-appointed expert? Detecting little differences in brands that taste all alike to you?

Is he an unconscious coffee-sipper? Never notices whether it's good or bad?

Make this secret test with mountain coffee that's really different

Get a can of Folger's tangy, mountain-grown coffee at your grocer's today, so you can serve it to your husband tomorrow morning. Make your coffee, the usual way with Folger's, except—

You use ¼ less coffee with Folger's. It's mountain-grown! Richer in flavor than ordinary brands using lowland coffee! Instead of using 4 spoons for 4 cups, try only 3 spoons of Folger's. Then—

Don't say a word to your husband. Simply serve him Folger's tomorrow morning. The second day go back to your old brand. And the third day serve Folger's again.

HERE'S COFFEE THAT'S DIFFERENT—
BECAUSE MOUNTAIN-GROWN!
SO FLAVORFUL YOU USE ¼ LESS

• It only takes one sip of Folger's to tell you it's a thrilling, different kind of coffee. Most ordinary brands use weak-tasting lowland coffees. But in Folger's—you taste coffees grown in the mountains of Central America... Where coffee is nurtured in rich volcanic soil; bathed in tropical rains; and ripened in keen, crisp mountain air and sunshine!

Men rave about the rare wine-y tang in Folger's! Housewives tell us it's so much more flavorful—they use less coffee! Most of them use ¼ less of Folger's than ordinary kinds—and still get better flavor, plus their coffee savings! Why not save ¼ on coffee yourself? Order Folger's at your grocer's today.

IT'S RICHER
IT'S DIFFERENT
IT'S SWEET
HE'LL RAVE about your discovery!
You'll get better flavor—and save ¼ on coffee.

Like Drip Coffee?
You'll like it better made with Folger's Drip Grind. Designed especially for drip-makers, Silux and other glass coffee-makers. Gives more flavorful drip coffee!
